JUNIORS TRIM THREE HILLS

The Carbon Junior Baseball Team opened the season by journeying to Three Hills on Sunday to play the junior aggregation of that town. The game was rather loosely played with Carbon getting seven runs the first time to bat which gave the local lads a good start. The Three Hill team managed to get two runs in the third inning although they had no hits during the entire game. The final score was 13-2 for Carbon.

Pitching for Carbon was Don McLeod and Cliff White, Gordon McLeod doing the receiving.

Carbon team this year will be G. McLeod, D. Pattison, L. Hay, H. Hunt, I. Ehnitz, J. Reid, C. Forsch, T. Heath, D. McLeod, C. White with Wray Wright doing justice by looking after the bats, etc. The team is being managed by Frank Emery and coached by Dan Rusler.

Control of men by men paralyses effort. Control of men by God releases energy.

Farm Records

There are successful farmers in every part of the province and there are successful farmers in every part. Not infrequently the two will be side by side. Usually it is found that the successful farmer has planned his operations to make use of his resources while the unsuccessful one has been following a production program that either is not adapted to the area or has not provided for permanency.

Farming is a permanent business and should be conducted as such. The planning of farming practices necessitates the keeping of permanent records: not only a receipt and expenditure record but a complete record of every field on the entire farm. This record should cover a number of items, including type of soil, presence or absence of weeds, whether or not soil erosion is a problem, costs of production and yield of crops for each year, as well as a number of other items. The plan of the farm should be drawn up and the cropping practice for the next three or more years written into it.

When a cropping program is decided upon it should be one that is suitable to the district and to the particular farm concerned and also should be one that maintains or preferably increases the productivity of the soil rather than, as is often the case, impoverishes it.

WEDDING

Baskets of pink and white snapdragons against a background of ferns was the setting of an all-white wedding at Crescent Heights United Church in Calgary, May 7 at 6.30 p.m., when Louise Marcia Kohut became the bride of Robert Little Stone. Rev. H. C. Burkholder read the marriage service of the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. Kohut of Calgary and the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Stone of Rockyford. It was the occasion of Mrs. Stone's birthday.

Attendants were Miss Helena Korch of Denver, Colo., cousin of the bride, as maid of honor, and Miss Nellie Steward and Miss Millie Lundgren as bridesmaids. Frances Kohut, niece of the bride, was train bearer. Mr. William Burns attended the groom and ushers were Mr. Mac Rudd and Mr. Wally Gibson. The soloists was Miss Jean Gardner of Edmonton.

The bride, who entered the church on the arm of her father, wore a gown of white satin styled on fitted lines with a round fine net yoke edged with pearl studded applique which also formed a narrow front panel. Her train length veil of illusion net was held in place by a sweetheart shaped headdress and she carried calla lilies centred with rosebuds.

A reception was held later at the Palliser hotel where the bride's mother and the groom's mother assisted the bridal party in receiving the guests. Mr. William Burns proposed the toast to the bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Stone motored to Spokane and Vancouver for their wedding trip. The bride donned as her going away costume a suit of powder blue trimmed with white fox fur. Her accessories were white and she wore a corsage of roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Stone will reside in Edmonton.

Should Canada Arm?

Considerable discussion on this startling question has been provoked by a survey of world armaments made by the military correspondent of the New York Times. Observers here claim that there is, as yet, no crystallized "public opinion" on the problem and serious consideration of it is found in very limited circles. However those who advise preparedness and even peace time conscription are becoming more vocal and perhaps deeper thinking on Canada's position should be recommended.

The staggering facts shown in the New York Times are that the nations are maintaining 19,000,000 men under arms and are spending $27,000,000,000 a year on defence.

What is Involved?

Many contend that if Canada is to be an effective factor in this kind of an armament race it is obvious that she would require men and money out of all proportion to her wealth and population. Certainly a glance at the figures would seem to confirm this view as our total budget for the present year for all purposes is just slightly over two billion dollars of which a very large part could be listed as "uncontrollable". Our present permanent force is made up of 16,285 Army, 10,461 Air and 6,275 Navy.

The question is how much are we able and willing to add to our budget (to be paid out of taxes) and our armed forces (recruited or conscripted from our youthful manpower) to keep up with other nations. The Toronto Globe and Mail, staunch newspaper supporter of the Progressive Conservative Party, contends that Canada's armed strength may have to be substantially increased if this country is to play a "self respecting" role as a partner of the British Commonwealth and the United States in defence and as a member of the United Nations, and that we must prune all "unnecessary" items from the budget so as to finance this program.

What Will We Give Up?

The question which no one who takes this view is willing to answer is "what substantial items can we give up in order to have a 'self respecting' defence force."

There are many who contend that the additional "items" that must be added to our budget ahead of a large army are: more substantial old age pensions, an adequate health insurance program and our projected public investment plan. Certainly no responsible person openly suggests that we should discontinue family allowances or reduce our re-establishment and pension plans for veterans. Our Place in the United Nations

The greatest value obtained from the discussions and controversies about our defence is the growing realization that our hope of continuing peace and prosperity can come only from the success of the United Nations organization. Whatever the cost of our membership might be it will be much less than the cost involved in trying to maintain an armed force in keeping with our position in world affairs. If a United Nations police system is possible we must be ready to bear our just share and few doubt that Canadians will make whatever sacrifice is necessary to do this. It will be hard to convince Canadians that they should pay high taxes and impose peace time conscription for any lesser objective.

OFF THE RECORD

A wit along Parliament Hill says that it's a good thing some of the Fathers of Confederation came to this country when they did because under present immigration laws some of them originally might have found it difficult to get into this country now!

SIGNS MISLEAD SEARCH FOR E. B. BOTTLES

Pranksters Responsible Say Authorities.

Crude signs reading "Empties Was Here" which are mysteriously appearing in basement corners and wall closets of homes all over Alberta are hindering authorities in their search for E. B. Bottles. Pranksters are believed to be responsible.

Authorities at Deliveries Limited who are conducting the search for E. B. Bottles, alias "Empties" who escaped from work in the brewing industry, said that such tactics only tend to lull citizens into relaxing their lookout for the fugitive. They stated that "Empties" may return to hiding in basement corners and closets which have recently been cleaned, in the belief that a search of these areas will not be repeated.

The present difficulty in supplying bottled brewery products was cited as evidence that "Empties" must be brought back to justice and put back on the job at once.

Deliveries Limited are offering a reward of 20 cents per dozen for the return of the fugitive. Should Bottles captured in a rural district, freight agents have been authorized to take the culprit into custody and arrange transportation to the nearest Deliveries Limited depot, without charge to the person or persons apprehending the fugitive. Bottles may also be turned over directly to Deliveries Limited depots at Calgary, Edmonton, Camrose, Lethbridge, Medicine Hat, Drumheller, McLennan, Blair more or Banff.

NOTE ON DIESELS

"Fit the tractor to the farm" advises E. B. Martin, extension agricultural engineer for the Alberta department of agriculture. If you are thinking of buying a diesel tractor make sure it will pay for itself. From the fuel standpoint the diesel is by far the most efficient type of farm tractor but it costs more to buy.

The purchaser of a diesel tractor must have work for it to do almost the year round in order that the fuel savings will have paid for the additional first cost before an extensive overhaul is necessary.

On the basis of present tractor prices in Edmonton you should have 750 to 800 hours work per year as a very minimum before you decide to buy a diesel in place of a gasoline or distillate farm tractor.

POST SEEDING CULTIVATION

Cultivation after the crop has been sown has solved to some extent the problem of growing out and destroying annual weeds without delaying seeding of the crop. In using this method the crop must be seeded at least three inches deep, and then rod weeded or wire weeded when the first sprout on the kernel is one inch long, that is on the kernel, not above the ground.

This method has proved very effective on such plants as stinkweed and wild mustard and may be used for the control of most annual weeds. It has not proved quite so effective for the control of wild oats for which special methods are required. Recommendations for wild oat control are outlined in detail in Circular No. 71, a copy of which may be obtained from the Field Crops Branch of the Alberta Department of Agriculture.

Farming As a "Business"

A study in "Agricultural Progress" by the Winnipeg Free Press shows that the progress has been toward making agriculture a business rather than a way of life as it has been in the past. In Manitoba 186 tractors and 33 combines were purchased in 1931. The mechanization of agriculture gradually increased these purchases to 2765 tractors and 974 combines in 1946. Agriculture in the other western provinces shows a similar increase in purchases of farm machinery.

The manager of a farm machine manufacturers Ottawa branch who was formerly a western Canada branch manager advises that the mechanization of Ontario farms shows at least as great an increase although the machinery purchased is more varied. A similar trend is shown in Quebec and the Maritime Provinces.

One result of this change is that there is no longer a wide divergence in the thinking of industry and agriculture.

Indianapolis has one of those off-trail city ordinances common in the United States, but which makes senate. It bans smoking in bed in a hotel.

NUTRITION QUESTION BOX

Miss B. Lewis, nutritionist for the home economics service of the Alberta department of agriculture says that a question often asked by Alberta housewives is "Do men doing heavy physical work need more meat than men who are not working so hard? The answer, contrary to general opinion is NO.

Meat is essential chiefly for its protein, the substance needed to build body tissues and keeps them in repair. One good serving of meat or fish daily, together with other foods recommended in Canada's Food Rules, will meet this requirement. Protein foods in greater quantity are used for energy which is less expensively supplied by carbohydrates and fats.

Although meat has a satisfying quality hard to find in other foods, a little ingenuity in meal planning will overcome this objection. To stretch your meat ration Miss Lewis suggests you try more main dishes using vegetables and whole grain cereals with milk, eggs or cheese.

SAVE THE NEW BORN PIGS

Reports to the Live Stock Branch from several districts indicate losses in young pigs between three and five weeks of age. The usual symptoms are inactivity, ruffled condition, shivering and diarrhoea. Breeders who have had this trouble in past years give several reasons for the condition.

1 Chilling of young pigs from sleeping on cold, damp floors.

2 Reduced vitality due to vitamin deficiency.

3 Anaemic condition due to lack of iron in the blood.

supervisor for the Alberta department of agriculture, says that where this condition appears, little pigs can be treated with a few drops of highly concentrated cod liver oil on the tongue, they should be well bedded to keep them warm from below and newly plowed sods should be provided which have been well dusted with iron sulphate at the rate of one teaspoonful of iron sulphate powder per square foot of sod or per shovelful of soil. On warm days provide an exit for the little pigs so that they can get out in the sun and into fresh dirt.

A good practice is to treat all little pigs with reduced iron at three, ten and eighteen days after birth. The dose is half the amount of reduced iron that will lie flat on a dime.
